

The

Harry Otten Prize

for Innovation in Meteorology

25000 Euro for the best innovative idea in meteorology

The Harry Otten Prize is a prize of 25000 Euro that is being awarded every two years for the best innovative idea in Meteorology.

The prize encourages individuals and small groups (maximum of 3 individuals) to propose new ideas of how meteorology can, in a practical way, move society forward.

The next prize will be awarded during the meeting of the European Meteorological Society (EMS) in Barcelona on 5 September 2021.

Ideas for the prize may be submitted from 15 September 2020 until the closing date of 10 March 2021.

The endowment created by Harry Otten, which allows awarding the prize, is governed by an independent board. The members of the board also form the prize jury.

For additional information please see www.harry-otten-prize.org